The Shell Lake 3-12 Library will be hosting an exhibit ("Great Lakes Small Streams: How Water Shapes Wisconsin") March 7th - March 17th. This Wisconsin Historical Society traveling exhibit explores our state's long relationship with water and the impact we have had on our vast waterways.

The sixteen panels and interactive kiosk allow visitors to track the movement of glaciers, follow changes made to local rivers over time, or seek out easy solutions to save water in their own homes. The exhibit encourages guests to consider the many ways water has shaped our state, both geographically and as a driver for settlement and industry.
