7th-12th Students of the Week

Our Middle School Student of the week is Addison Brown! Addison is willing to help others and demonstrates exemplary work ethic while also being kind and an excellent friend to her peers. Her smile is contagious! Keep it up Addison!

Our High School Student of the week is Jaden Iorns! Jaden is a kind, compassionate student who steps forth when help is needed. If a classmate is struggling, Jaden is the first to volunteer to help. In her academic life, Jaden seeks extra help if she needs it and takes feedback well. She has a spirit of service and strives to do well in her classes. Way to go, Jaden!

Shell Lake FFA News

Shell Lake FFA Explores the Future of Farming at Fair Oaks Farms. They had the opportunity to experience the cutting edge of modern agriculture during their recent visit to Fair Oaks Farms. The trip was filled with exciting hands-on learning, including a close look at the farm's robotics and hog facilities.

The tour kicked off with a visit to the state-of-the-art robotic milking system, where students saw firsthand how technology is transforming traditional farming practices. From automatic feeding to milking, the robots handled it all with precision—leaving the FFA members in awe of the future possibilities for agriculture.

Next, they headed to the hog farm facility, where they learned about the latest advancements in animal care, sustainability, and productivity. The students were fascinated by the innovations that make hog farming more efficient while maintaining high standards of animal welfare.

But the learning didn't stop there! After a day filled with farm tours and ag tech talk, the group blew off some steam by tackling Fair Oaks' obstacle course. With a mix of friendly competition and plenty of laughter, the students took on the challenge and proved they have just as much determination as they do interest in agriculture. It was a day full of fun, innovation, and inspiration
